

New Business Group Formed In North Narberth

Nine Merchants Join Association Formed December 1

Nine Borough merchants in the North Narberth section announced this week that a new Narberth Business Association had been formed.

The merchants, headed by John Dorezo, a partner with John Cappelli in Johnny's Hogle Shop, were responsible for the Christmas lights which were installed in the north section of the Borough for the first time this year.

The first meeting of the new group was held December 1, and plans have been made to meet the first Monday of each month at different members' stores. Other officers include: Quintin Guilian, vice-president; John Paolini, treasurer, and Mario Casavecchia, secretary. Dorezo stated this week that the Association has included in its aims for the coming year, the betterment of the section through better traffic regulations, street markings, and traffic control. He added that the Christmas decorations would be improved upon by next year, too.

The nine merchants who are now members of the new association include Marian's Hogle Shop, Trainer's Confectionery, Reginald's Cafe, Marian's Food Market, Paolini's Food Market, Chester's Shoe Repair, Mario's Barber Shop, Mary's Beauty Salon and Guilian's Cafe.

Miss Ely Pleads for More Sponsors To Bring Displaced Persons Here

A plea for more sponsors to enable displaced persons to be brought to this country from Europe was made last week by Miss Gertrude Ely, Merion Ave., Bryn Mawr, upon her return from a three-months' tour of Europe and England.

Miss Ely made the trip as an unofficial observer for the United Nations International Refugee Organization (in charge of displaced persons) and the UN Committee for International Children's Emergency Fund. She visited France, Germany, Switzerland, Austria, Italy and Czechoslovakia.

Despite the excellent work being done by IRO workers, she said, conditions of DP camps in Germany, Austria and northern Italy are appalling because of the lack of equipment, privacy and other necessities. "I have never seen people who have absolutely nothing, with more faith, hope and ambition," Miss Ely declared. "They have absolutely no privacy, they have no possessions, other than in some cases a few scraps of cloth, and most of them have nothing to do."

"Each has only a bed and two blankets and the clothes they have on their backs. Some of them, to get a semblance of privacy, sacrifice one of their blankets to hang between the beds."

"And yet, despite the fact that they have been living this abnormal life in the DP camps for more than three years and in Nazi prison camps for an additional six years, they have not lost their faith in life and in other human beings."

"There are two things we must do," she said. "We must secure more sponsorships guaranteeing work and lodging for these people in our country, and we must be sure that when they get here they get the right impression of America from the way in which they are received and taken care of."

She urged that churches, organizations and individuals of Lower Merion and Haverford Townships and Narberth Borough join with other groups and individuals throughout the country in offering the necessary sponsorships.

Pointing out that Protestant organizations are lagging far behind the Jewish and Catholic groups in finding group sponsorships for the DPs, she suggested that every group, religious or secular, get to

New officers for 1949 were nominated and prizes for the recent large fish, game and vermin contests were awarded December 15 at the monthly meeting of the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club.

Following the business meeting, held in the Narberth Legion Hall, Gleason Mattoon, of Narberth, president of the Pennsylvania Forestry Association, talked on the relationship of good forest management and the sportsman.

Nominees for the election which will take place January 19 include John Munro, of Wilmington, Del.; president; Philip Cappalonga, of Narberth; P. Lohes, of Haverford, and Frank Davis, of Philadelphia, vice-presidents (three to be elected).

Three junior members of the club took all three first places in the annual vermin contest. Their accumulated points were based principally on rats and crows.

George Reiman took first place with 550 points; Lou Schmitt, second with 470 points, and Henry Hopkins, Jr., third with 400 points.

Butler Given Light Sentence for Thefts

William Norman, 58, charged with taking $592 from the home of L. Rodman Page, Villanova, where he was employed as a butler, was placed on probation for two years this week by Judge Corson of the Montgomery County Court.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Corson stated that leniency was shown because of the excellent references from many prominent Main Line families to Norman.

Judge Corson granted the light sentence on the condition that Norman pay a sum of $100 for the use of the County. Norman had already made full restitution for the thefts which, according to Lower Merion Township police, had dated from November 16.

Traffic Tie-Ups In Twp. Blamed On Icy Streets

Thaw Followed By Rise In Temperature Leaves Ice-Coated Highways

Several traffic tie-ups and a number of minor accidents kept Lower Merion Township police busy last Tuesday night when an afternoon thaw melted much of the recent snow and a later rise in temperature left a sheet of ice on township streets.

Although the icy condition was prevalent throughout the township, two of the worst spots, according to police, were Conshohocken State Rd., Villanova, and City Ave., from Belmont Ave. to City Ave. Bridge.

Several hundred automobiles were tied up on City Ave. for about an hour after 9 P. M., and earlier in the evening, a traffic jam on State Rd., made it necessary for police to stop traffic there between Spruce Mill and Woodmont Rds. for almost an hour.

"Township, county and state citizens were working most of the evening, police said."

At 9:30 P. M., two persons escaped injury when an automobile skidded into the rear of a truck on Belmont Avenue, Cynwyd. The automobile driver was Miss Elizabeth Vitacolonna, 21, of Philadelphia, while Herbert Plank, 43, of Norristown, was driving the truck.

Early the following morning, Lewis Sylvania, 30, of Upper Darby suffered cuts and bruises when the car in which he was a passenger was struck by another automobile on Lancaster Ave., near Wynnewood Rd., Wynnewood. He was treated at the home of a nearby physician.

Police said he was riding in a car driven by Andrew P. Rolli, 35, of 132 Edgemont Rd., Ardmore, who had been proceeding west on Lancaster Ave., when an east-bound automobile swerved over into the west-bound traffic lane and crashed into the Rolli car.

The other driver, police said, was Gordon Hattersley, 18, of 1501 Indian Creek Drive, Wynnewood.

Woman Loses Leg After Fall Under Westbound Train

Struck by Paoli Local at Haverford

A 48-year-old Haverford woman escaped death last Thursday morning when she either fell or jumped in front of a westbound Paoli local train as it was drawing to a stop at the Haverford railroad station.

Identified as Mrs. Jeanne DeRouse Naisby, of the Haverford Villa Apartments, Montgomery and Woodside Aves., she was rushed to Bryn Mawr Hospital, where her crushed left leg was amputated below the knee.

She was reported in good condition yesterday by hospital authorities who said her other injuries include a broken jaw, a fracture of the left forearm and multiple cuts and bruises of the entire left side.

Mrs. Naisby, whose second husband, Russell, died in 1940, was seen by witnesses "acting in a peculiar manner" prior to the accident, according to Lower Merion police, who said she "apparently jumped in front of the train."

They said her escape from death was probably due to the fact that she apparently was struck by the train at an angle and instead of being crushed under the wheels was thrown ahead of the engine.

Police were called to the scene by Frederick Cuesta, taxi driver, and P. H. Handwork, railroad ticket agent. Mrs. Naisby was taken to the hospital in a police ambulance.

Railroad officials said the woman was struck at 9:07 A. M. by the commuter train which had left the Suburban Station in Phila. at 8:45 A. M. They said that approximately 300 passengers were delayed 20 minutes. The engineer, they said, was H. T. Almond, of Philadelphia.

Police said Mrs. Naisby was released November 22 from the State Hospital in Norristown. Since then, she and her daughter, Jeanne, 15, have been visiting Mrs. George Naisby at the Haverford Villa Apartments.

PUC Approves Rate Boost For Red Arrow Lines

New Fare Schedule to Go Into Effect This Saturday

The Philadelphia Suburban Transportation Company—Red Arrow Lines—has received a green light on its proposed $232,000 a year rate boost.

The fare increase will go into effect January 1. Last week, the Public Utility Commission, by voting to take no action, in effect approved the establishment of a straight ten-cent cash fare in each zone and allowed the transportation company to discontinue discount tickets which have been sold for nearly 20 years.

Starting January 1, the present seven-and-a-half cent commuter tickets and the 15-cent rate on two rail and three bus line two-zone routes will be abolished.

Rail lines affected are the West Chester Division, where the ride from Newtown Square to 69th St. will be ten cents per zone instead of 15 cents, and the Media branch ten cents per zone.

Bus routes involved include the Gladwyne to Darby, two zones, formerly 13 cents to become 10 cents per zone; Ardmore to Darby, two zones, 15 cents, to become 12 cents per zone, and the Chester division where the 15-cent zones will be eliminated.

The present five-cent school children's rate will not be affected by the new schedule. Fares for children under 12 years will be on the basis of four tickets for 30 cents in place of five tickets for 25 cents, thus maintaining the 25 percent discount formerly in effect. Children under five years will continue to ride free.

Strip or book tickets, which sell for 11 for $1 or 30 for $2.50, will be accepted as fares for a period of 30 days after January 1. If holders of these tickets do not use them in that time, a redemption value will be allowed by the company.

The company, in its application to the PUC for the tariff boost, stated that rising material costs, together with higher operating expense and wage increases for employees, necessitated the fare rise in order to "maintain quality of service."

It also cited its postwar improvement program which calls for new equipment on both rail and bus lines, as an added reason for the rate boost.

Youngster Succumbs On Christmas Eve

T. David Shihadeh, 3rd, young son of Mr. and Mrs. T. David Shihadeh, of 228 Henley Rd., Penn Wynne, died in Bryn Mawr Hospital on Christmas Eve.

The child is survived by his parents, a sister, Bonnie Jeanne, two, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore D. Shihadeh, of 113 Sulton Rd., Ardmore. His mother is the former Jeanne Santamarie, of Rosemont.

Funeral services were held this afternoon from the Frankfield and Chadwick Funeral Home, Ardmore.

Hvd. Couple, 2 Children Roused By Bursting Boiler

A Haverford couple and their two young daughters were roused at 4 A. M. Thursday when the hot water boiler burst in the cellar of their home on Buck Lane, Haverford Township, and water started filling the basement.

First to awaken was Mrs. Francis T. Murray, who heard a "roaring" sound as of water running, and traced the noise to the basement which by that time was filled with steam.

She called Oakmont, Brookline and Bryn Mawr fire companies and then roused her husband and two children, Sharon, 7, and Susan, 3. The firemen shut off the water and the Murrays were able to return to their beds.

Murray is director of the Inquirer Charities.

Bryn Mawr Man Says Plan Would Cut Traffic Jam

Charges Commuters Cause Congestion on Present Roads

When the Schuylkill Expressway is built, linking the Pennsylvania Turnpike to Philadelphia, it should be broken by a clover-leaf intersection in Lower Merion Township, a prominent Bryn Mawr resident suggested last week.

The clover-leaf would relieve traffic congestion between the city and the Main Line suburbs, it was pointed out by Walter L. Morgan of 440 Garden Lane, Bryn Mawr who made his recommendation in a letter to William S. Canning, vice chairman of the Philadelphia Highway Traffic Board and engineering director of the Keystone Automobile Club.

His proposal followed an announcement by the Philadelphia City Planning Commission of plan for that part of the proposed express highway between City Line and City Ave., inside the city limits.

The commission wants four links to the expressway within the city. Morgan's proposal calls for at least one clover-leaf between City Line and West Conshohocken, where the expressway route will bend away from the river toward its terminus at the King of Prussia end of the Pennsylvania Turnpike extension.

"Such an entrance or exit could readily be provided at Waverly Rd., slightly north of Gladwyne," Morgan wrote. "This would provide a ready relief of suburban traffic from the Ardmore-Bryn Mawr-Villanova traffic center and would alleviate the traffic snails at Bala-Cynwyd and Belmont Ave."

Discussing his proposal yesterday, Morgan, who is president of the Wellington Fund, pointed out that in order to relieve traffic congestion along Lancaster and Montgomery Aves., through the Main Line suburbs, the expressway must be accessible to local commuters as well as to through traffic.

"The really heavy traffic jams in the morning and evening are not caused by through traffic," he said, "but by the huge number of Main Line residents who commute to Philadelphia by car. Merely to take through traffic off the present arterials is not going to relieve the situation very much."

He called attention to the way the great expressways through suburban New York and Connecticut are laid out, notably the Merritt and Saw Mill Parkways. Every town along these parkways is accessible by clover-leaf cut-offs.

In addition, he pointed out, unless there is some break in the expressway between West Conshohocken and Philadelphia, persons driving from Harrisburg to Main Line communities will have to cut over to Lancaster or Montgomery Aves. somewhere between King of Prussia and West Conshohocken or else drive into Philadelphia and out again.

THINKING OUT LOUD

Copyright 1948 by CHARLES A. WRIGHT

Move Over, M. Dier

Once again we have proved our usefulness as a father and will be allowed to live around our house for at least another week. We determined what the Young Man would wear to the Comic Strip Ball, which was the big event of a recent week in his set. Not only that, but we helped design his costume, which proves that we have talents that even we didn't suspect.

We hear that there are homes in which comic strips and comic books create a big social problem, but happily our house escaped that.

menace. If our children spent dimes recklessly in their growing-up period, it was never on comic books. All too early, in our opinion, they outgrew even the newspaper comics, so that when we have wanted to discuss important subjects of the day, such as whether Daddy Warbucks was really dead or whether Dick Tracy would finally capture the latest villain, our children have been unable to offer any informed opinions. The Little Woman is a half-hearted sort of comic fan; she tells everybody that she "loves" Dagwood; but even she reveals her ignorance at times as when she asked us: "What is Sadie Hawkins Day?"

Therefore, when the Young Man arrived home from New Haven a week before Christmas and said he needed a costume for a Comic Strip Ball to be held a few days later, it was to us that he turned for enlightenment. Then it was that we were proud that our education had not been neglected; that we had kept up with all the doings of the comic characters while he had been wasting his time just studying law.

Hurriedly we checked through all the possibilities: Barney Google or Snuffy Smith? No; the Young Man was too tall. Steve Canyon or Hot Shot Charlie? No; it was too hard to achieve a likeness. Superman? No; Our Son can't fly. Little Abner? No; because surely at least half of the young men would come in that garb.

We had disposed of ten or twelve characters when our genius finally asserted itself. A light shone in our eyes and a thrill of pride must have radiated from our face. "Why," we asked, "don't you go as the Yellow Kid?" "Who," asked the Young Man, putting down the copy of the Yale Law Journal which he reads as recreation, "is the Yellow Kid?"

If you old-timers are distressed by the Young Man's answer, you can realize how sad we felt about it, too. For everybody should know that the Yellow Kid was the very first of the New York World back in 1894. He was a fresh kid whose sole attire consisted of a nightgown and who got into all sorts of naughty scrapes. At first, his nightgown was white, but later the printers colored it yellow and he became known far and wide as the Yellow Kid. In fact, it was his garb that first gave the term "yellow journalism" to the sensational newspaper practices of that day.

The Young Man thought that was a great idea for a costume, whereupon it became up to us to see that a Yellow Kid outfit in appropriate size was provided. Fortunately, we found an old picture of the Yellow Kid, which helped a lot. The best approach, we figured, was to buy an old-fashioned man's nightgown and dye it yellow. So, on the night before the ball, we began calling the shops.

Have you tried to buy a man's long nightgown lately? Especially in the week before Christmas, when the storekeepers have their minds on more glamorous things. Several of them obligingly offered to sell us a nifty pair of pajamas. "Your grandfather would like those much better," they suggested. And one young lady chirped: "An old-fashioned man's nightgown? I'd be satisfied with an old fashioned man!"

So at length we hit on another approach. "Do you have any yellow cloth for making a masquerade costume?" we began asking. One storekeeper admitted that she did, so we sent the Young Man over for it. The Little Woman was busy with other things, so when the Young Man returned with the cloth, we decided to prove our cleverness. "Stand here," we told him, as we took four yards of the material, doubled it up, and held it against his shoulder, "we told him as we took said, as we measured off a space for his head, and snipped it out of the cloth. The fact that we snipped out too much, and that the Little Woman had to fasten some of it back, does not prove that our principle was wrong.

Then, with the yellow stuff hanging from his shoulders front and back, we jabbed in pins, some in the cloth and some in the Young Man, until finally we had created the design we wanted. After that, all the Little Woman had to do was cut off the excess material and sew up the costume, which proves what a big help a husband can be around the house.

Unfortunately, in our design, the sleeves were too short, so the next day Our Daughter had to make sleeve extensions and sew them on, but that was a small detail. After that, we got some black cloth, cut out the letters "Hully Gee" and fastened them on the front of the costume. In the picture of the Yellow Kid we had found, he had those words on his nightgown and we wanted the costume to be authentic.

We suggested two more touches that would have added realism. The Yellow Kid had no hair and he wore no shoes. But as much as we coaxed, the Young Man declined to let us shave his head or to go in his bare feet. Seems like today's young men lack the daring that we fellows had when we were of that age.

Anyhow, at long last everything was ready and the Young Man was off and we settled back to wondering if anybody would remember that there had once been a comic strip character known as the Yellow Kid. So we were happy to learn the next day that the host at the party had recognized the costume immediately. What's more, another young man had come up to our Young Man and had said: "I thought of going as the Yellow Kid, too."

Children Share $100,000 Estate of Judge Van Dusen

Jurist's Sons Named Executors and Trustees in Will

Lewis H. Van Dusen, Jr., of Bala-Cynwyd, and Francis L. Van Dusen, of Wynnewood, both attorneys, and their three sisters, will share equally in the estate of Judge Lewis H. Van Dusen, President Judge of the Philadelphia Orphans' Court, who died December 10.

The estate is valued for probate at $100,000 and upward and was filed for probate December 22. Judge Van Dusen's will stipulates that the five children are to share all personal effects, household goods, clothing and jewelry, in his homes in the Cambridge Apartments, Wissahickon Ave. and School Lane, and at Pocono Lake Preserve, Monroe County. A $7000 value on real estate includes the latter.

The other children are Mrs. Harrison Page, of Philadelphia; Mrs. Paul V. Cherington and Mrs. Clarence McKenzie, both of Alexandria, Va. The two sons are named executors and trustees.

The rest of the estate is left in trust, the net income to be paid in equal shares to the children during their lifetimes. There is a provision that any of the five children, in case of illness or emergency, may, with the consent of all the others, withdraw a sum not to exceed $5000 from the principal.

Upon the deaths of all the children the principal is to be shared equally among all grandchildren then living. There were 11 grandchildren at the time of Judge Van Dusen's death.

To a lady with her first gray hair...

THEY SAY gray hair comes from worry.

So what follows is advice: Stop worrying!

What follows now is HOW to stop worrying—at least when it comes to money. Buy United States Savings Bonds where you work through the Payroll Savings Plan. Or through the Bond-A-Month Plan at your bank, if you're not on a payroll.

It's as simple as that. And as profitable as this: For every three dollars you save, you get four dollars back! Just think—an extra crisp ten dollar bill for every thirty you invest, after ten years!

It's the regularity of these two great plans which accomplishes wonders of economy. Month after month the money gets put away... and you hardly miss it! Yet if you sign up for just a $37.50 bond each month you'll have $4,998.00 in 10 years. What a comfortable cushion that makes to fall back on in any emergency... or in luxury!

Buying Savings Bonds is the best way we know to stop worrying about money. And if you still get gray after joining up—as most of us eventually do—you can live in secure comfort with your gray hair!

Automatic Saving is Sure Saving—U.S. Savings Bonds

By BOB JOHNSTON

It's been more years than Ford followers care to remember since Haverford High boasted an unbeaten basketball team with the first couple weeks of the season gone, but Coach Steve Juenger isn't becoming unduly excited over his team's prospects.

"There's still a long way to go," Steve pointed out the other evening, "and now we run into the tough ones, with the league schedule just beginning. There's no reason to get excited yet."

Norristown, with Williams, its 6-foot-4 center as the main cog, figures to be plenty tough again this year, Juenger believes. Along with last year's P.T.A.A. State champions, Chester and Cheltenham also will provide plenty of opposition as the Section One race gets under way, the Ford's coach commented.

And, despite four successive losses before it finally whipped Friends Central, Lower Merion can't be counted out, according to Steve. "Lower Merion has been playing some good games against tough teams," he remarked. "I think they're about ready to roll. You can't afford to take 'em lightly."

Man for man, Juenger doesn't think the current Haverford court team measures up to last year's. But, he pointed out, the Ford five this year is emphasizing team work. While perhaps as many individual aces aren't on hand, Haverford has been performing as a cohesive unit thus far, and it's paying rich dividends.

Haverford's first five includes three of the four available lettermen from last year's team. Three Forwards—Tony Jones and Bruce Yeland, and Bill Rack, guard—were football regulars last fall. Rounding out the starting squad are Dick Heylum, lanky six-footer who alternates between forward and center, and Dan Fitzpatrick, guard. Fitzpatrick is a junior, the other starters are seniors.

Although the Haverford team averages a bit over six feet, Juenger doesn't consider it especially tall. Howie Lamley, 6-foot-2 sophomore center, is the tallest of the entire club, which comprises mainly senior and junior class members.

Two newcomers, recent transfers to Haverford, are on the varsity—Osborne Miller, who hails from St. Louis, and Joe Brophy, from Northeast High.

Hornet Matmen Meet Gettysburg

Haverford College wrestling team, following P.H.C. with P.H.C. and Delaware, will play host to Gettysburg on January 8 in its first post-holiday start.

Succeeding matches will be waged with Johns Hopkins, Drexel Tech, Ursinus, Muhlenberg and Swarthmore.

Four lettermen are included on the Haverford team, which won three of nine matches last year. These include Dave Hastings, 121-pounder; Clark Lightfoot, 145; Phil Maroney, 175, and Capt. Bill Rodewald, heavyweight. Among newcomers to the team is Bob Johnston, 1948 football captain, who is battling Maroney for the 175-pound job.

Villanova Bowl Game Will Be Aired By KYW

The Villanova College-University of Nevada Harbor Bowl football game will be broadcast exclusively by KYW and NBC from San Diego on New Year's Day.

Scheduled to get underway at 4:45 P. M., the play-by-play description will follow a broadcast of the "Gator Bowl" battle between Clemson College and the University of Missouri from Jacksonville, Fla.

Bill Stern, director of sports for NBC, will handle the Harbor Bowl assignment, and Ted Flaming will broadcast from the "Gator Bowl." Airing of the latter game will begin at 2 P. M., with kick-off for 2:15.

L. M. Vets Lengthen Lead In Main Line League Race

By Harry Ellsworth

The Lower Merion Veterans increased their lead in the Main Line League to two full games last week, downing Norristown and Wayne while second place Narberth remained idle.

Mixing a fast break with deadly set shooting, the Vets took the Orioles, 61-45, and topped the Italian-Americans, 72-50, to run their winning streak to six straight.

Hold Commanding Lead
The Vets held a commanding 35-17 halftime lead over Norristown and then coasted to their revenge victory before a large crowd at Lower Merion, Wednesday. The following night, the Vets sprinted in the second half to down the Orioles, 61-45, and topped the Italian-Americans, 72-50, to run their winning streak to six straight.

Wayne DeSota scored 21 points to lead the winners attack, while Sid Colin tallied 14 for Wayne. The Italian-Americans suffered a serious loss early in the first quarter when Stu Adams, their ace center and the leading scorer in the league, sprained his ankle. How long the big red-head will be out of action is unknown.

Yeadon, which stands a half game behind Norristown in fourth place, upset the Orioles, 50-48, Tuesday at the Arena when Bill Mackel potted a layup in the last seconds. On Wednesday night, however, Yeadon was defeated by Wayne, 65-56, as Sid Colin scored 23 points for the winners.

Cheltenham Wins Two
Cheltenham swung back into the win column with two wins to tie Wayne for sixth place. The Cheltenham handball team won its ninth defeat in a row, 59-44, with George Anderman scoring 21 points. On Thursday, Cheltenham tripped Coatesville, 56-47, to thwart the defending champions attempt to jump into the first division.

This week's schedule opens Wednesday night with the Lower Merion Vets trying to extend their break against pesky Yeadon. Bill Mackel, big league center who has scored 119 points this year, is the key man in the Yeadon offense. As Mackel goes, so goes Yeadon.

The Vets will present their usual all-star lineup of Harry DeSota and Bill Koehler at forwards, Don Evans at center, and Harry Middleton and Biggie center who has scored 119 points this year, is the key man in the Yeadon offense. As Mackel goes, so goes Yeadon.

The other Wednesday night contest pits Wayne against Norristown at Sewart Armory, Norristown.

W. Chester Host To L. M. Passers

Following Tuesday's game at Hazleton, Lower Merion High Courtmen will travel to West Chester next Tuesday night, Jan. 4, for another inter-league contest prior to their Section One inaugural.

In the opening Section One game, Lower Merion will play Abington at the York Roaders' floor, January 7. Upper Darby will be met on Jan. 11 in the Ardmore Aces' first league tussle in Downs Gymnasium.

At Hazleton, Coach Jack Hinchey's Merionites were seeking to bolster a budding victory streak. The Aces finally won over Friends Central after successful losses to West Philadelphia, Ridley Township, John Bartram and Merchantville.

Final Payment Made

The Haverford Township Band Mothers December 13 made their last payment on the band uniforms purchased this fall for the members of the junior and senior high school bands at a cost of $3100.

Villanova Faces Nevada Eleven In Bowl Tilt Jan. 1

The Villanova College football party of 45, including 33 players, entrained Sunday night for San Diego, Calif., where the Wildcats will meet University of Nevada in the Harbor Bowl game on New Year's Day.

The game will mark the first New Year's Day football battle for the Main Liners since 1937, when Clipper Smith took Villanova to Havana for the Bicardi Bowl show. In that contest, Villanova battled Auburn to a 7-7 deadlock.

Last year, Villanova met University of Kentucky in the post-season Great Lakes Bowl game in Cleveland played in late December. The Villanova squad boarded two special cars attached to the General, a Pennsylvania Railroad train running between New York and Chicago.

Prior to boarding the train, Villanova practiced for two weeks in the Swarthmore College field house. Coach Jordan Oliver expects the Wildcats to be at full strength against Nevada. Guard George Pavalko, who suffered a broken hand in the Kentucky game and missed the final three contests, has fully recovered.

Miss Ely

the acceptance of DP's in America, Miss Ely said, "When people say they don't want displaced persons because they're subversive, I answer this:
"These are the people who were opposed to the Nazis and went to prison camps rather than accept the Nazi way of life. You couldn't find any people in the world who are less apt to want to destroy a democratic country."
"Those Americans who think we will be getting weak stock should realize that any person who could survive the nine years of hardships endured by these people must be strong, healthy people."
"Those Americans who say: 'The DP's haven't worked for years; they've forgotten how to work; they'll be lazy and a burden to us,' should have been with me in November when I went through a train which was transporting the second group of displaced persons to the ship leaving Germany for America."
"They were so happy and yet so anxious and fearful that something would happen to prevent their leaving that it was heart-breaking."
"As I walked through the compartments of the train, I asked as many as I could what they were going to do when they got to America. Ninety-nine percent of them answered that they were going to work."
"Their answers were consistently: 'I'm an electrician, I'm going to work; I'm a dressmaker, I'm going to work; I'm a carpenter, I'm going to work; I'm a farmer, I'm going to work.'"
"When there are those who say 'there aren't enough jobs for Americans; why bring in more people?' I say to them you should see the lists that have already been sent to the U. S. Commission guaranteeing jobs, asking for so many electricians, so many dressmakers and so forth."
Miss Ely said that the displaced persons have grown rather cool about coming to America because they think the Americans don't want them, but that they still have great respect and admiration for the American people.
Their chief ambitions, she said, are to have a home where they can be a family once more, to have work, and to get as far away from Europe as possible. Their greatest fears are that they will be left there and be forgotten, and that there will be another war in Europe.

Miss Ely praised highly the work of the IRO personnel and the work of the numerous volunteer organizations in the camps.
She also praised the work of the UN's ICEF in feeding the children in the schools and institutions. These are not DP children, she pointed out, but the children in the various countries.
She said there was not nearly enough money for this but that what was being done was extremely beneficial for the children. "Even the small amounts of fat, cocoa, milk and other foods they are getting are working wonders with them," she said.
In addition to this work, she said, the ICEF is cooperating with the World Health Organization in giving anti-TB inoculations to millions of children and young children in European and other countries, and in giving anti-syphilis treatments to babies and pregnant mothers.

Father Held In Beating of Girl Christmas Eve

A father who allegedly broke his 17-year-old daughter's arm and struck her in the face with a crutch was held in $1000 bail for the Delaware County Grand Jury on Monday morning.
John Schultz, 45, of 1744 Burmont road, Bon Air, was remanded to the Delaware County Jail in default of bail after a hearing before Magistrate Gordon Herr, in Upper Darby.
Schultz was charged with aggravated assault and battery after his daughter Mary, 17, accused him of striking her when she attempted to interfere with his abuses of her brother John, 13, who has been forced to use crutches since he broke his right foot in a fall from a horse.
The girl told Herr her father returned home from work about 4 P. M. on Christmas Eve and began to push her brother around. When she remonstrated, she told the magistrate, he took one of her brother's crutches and struck her across the forehead with it. Then he twisted her left arm with such pressure that he broke it in two places, she testified.
She was treated and discharged at Delaware County Hospital she said.
It wasn't until Sunday, when her place of employment, a drugstore at 69th St., would not allow her to work because her arm was in a sling, that she decided to take action against her father. She went before Herr and swore out a warrant. Schultz was taken into custody later in the day by County Detective Douglas Bennett and Upper Darby Detective Morton Keely.

Cellars Flooded As Main Breaks In Bryn Mawr

Half a hundred homes in the vicinity of Warner Ave. and Lancaster Pike, Bryn Mawr, were flooded early Monday morning when a four-inch water main burst in the near-zero weather.
Spokesmen for the Philadelphia Suburban Water Company said the cement main parted at the intersection of Lancaster Pike and Warner Ave., and water seeped into the cellars of nearby business establishments and homes. Families in the area were without water for several hours while water company workmen repaired the damage.
Thomas Koletas, proprietor of a cafe on the southwest corner of the intersection, called Bryn Mawr Fire Company about 6 A. M., when he noticed a cloud of steam rising from his cellar. Water damaged goods in the cellar of an American Store, a Chinese laundry and a barber shop, as well as many homes in the area. Police said the water reached a seven-foot level in some cellars.
The block was roped off from Lancaster Pike to Old Lancaster Road while repair crews worked for half a day to put the main back in service.

25 Residents To Serve On Co. Jury

Narberth firemen were called out Wednesday morning when a bucket-a-day coal hot water heater exploded in the cellar of the home of the manager of Barclay Nurseries at 1288 Montgomery Ave., Narberth.
Damage to the building, which also contains company offices, was estimated at $250 by Lower Merion Fire Marshal Harvey W. Benson, who said the explosion blew out several cellar windows and pushed up a number of floor boards.
Hot embers were scattered throughout the cellar, he said, and a pile of rubbish ignited. However, there was no fire damage.
Although smoke filled the house, no one was forced out, according to Benson. There at the time, he said, were the manager, Mrs. Marie M. Hansen, a maid and a painter who were residents were drawn for jury duty during the week of February 7 for the Criminal Court. They include:
Frances Cole, Bryn Mawr; S. Edgar Downs, Ardmore; William L. Fowler, Bryn Mawr; Sarah Franklin, Bryn Mawr; Katherine Levars, Ardmore; William Reinhart, Gladwyne; Alice Shovel, Haverford; Mabel Spady, Bryn Mawr, and Margaret S. Werner, Ardmore.

Present Prizes For Christmas Light Effects

The Ard-Wood Civic Association for the second year presented awards to four residents in the district whose home Christmas decorations were outstanding.
E. A. Walther, chairman of the committee which presented the awards, said that more homes in this area were decorated than ever before.
"We are looking forward to an even greater response next year, and we feel that this kind of thing adds immeasurably not only to the beauty of the area but to the close kinship of our residents, and the feeling of good will which is so important a part of Christmas," he said.
First prize, for the best-decorated single home, was presented to James C. Taylor, 209 Williamsburg Rd. Honorable mention in this division went to W. C. Wagner, 149 Grandview Rd.
First prize in the twin-house division was received by D. M. Robertson, 21 Wellington Rd., and honorable mention by William J. Murwin, 23 Chatham Rd.
